

The music of Lek Fonq has been described as pop-funk meets dance with a sunshine party vibe.

LEK FONQ

Lek Fonq is made up of original members David Ciura (lead vocals/production) and Joe Tomar-chio (synths/sequencer/vocals). The band plays live sets with guests on guitar, bass and drums. Since forming as a group, Lek Fonq have performed regularly at inner Sydney venues and have toured up and down the east coast of Australia.

As a producer David Ciura has released his music productions overseas via various streams including TV, in Australian Film, Compilations and Ring Tones. The productions of David Ciura and Lek Fonq have been played on local radio and also played on stations in Brazil, Begium, Italy and NZ, and featured in inthemix.com.au's podcast series.

Lek Fonq successfully released their first EP in 2007 and after various plays on local radio and podcasts, a track from the EP was picked up for an Australian feature film which hit cinemas in 2012.

The bands much anticipated film clip and follow-up EP called 'Inner Rhythm' was released in early 2010. The track was played locally and overseas and the video was shown on Rage, TVS and shown internationally.

Released to radio on Nov 26 2011, "Short Skirts (Tight Mix)" was Lek Fonq's follow up to Inner Rhythm. The film clip released on Youtube Dec 4, is a stop-motion animation musical feast featuring cut-outs of the band members, instruments and some special ladies. The video was featured weekly on Rage, TVS in Australia and also played internationally on radio and TV.

Lek Fonq's new single and video "Facebook Lover" was launched in Sydney on Sat Aug 10, 2013.
